Letter from Lynchburg.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] LYNCHBURG, VA., May 18.-The summer, after many cloudy smiles and angry tears, seems to have at length burst upon us, in all her sunshine of glory. Verily she seems to be making up for lost time. During the month of Aprilthe month supposed to be wreathed in smileswe had twenty-one days of continued rain, and the rest were cloudy. The farmers sighed as they looked at the dreary clouds, and heard the dismal patter of the rain; our good merchants looked bive as they rattled the coppers in their pockets; the photographer swore softly, and when at length the clouds flew east and west and went away on their trackless flight, and there was blue sky enough to make a Dutchman a pair of breeches, we all began to feel jolly and gay once more. The sweet words of the poet Solomon came into our minds:--"The winter is passed, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land." The rain ceased and business began to prosper; the sun came out; the big loads of tobacco began to come in; the horn tooted gaily for the "breaks;" the merobants began to "smile;" the farmers were composed; everybody said "howdy" to everybody else, and things at the present writing are beginning to "git up and git." This last quotation is from some of the classics, we forget which, being a tad hand at recollect-

Our worthy merchants have been very much exercised in regard to the tate odious tax bill passed by the Legislature at its last session. At sundry meetings in which our leading firms were represented, the aforesaid bili was duly and truly denounced. What good all this will do remains to be seen.

Local items in Lynchburg have been as scarce as ben's teeth, and our reporters have been in despair. Last year when such was the case a few remarks about the removal of the old market house or Fort Snacks was always in order, but since they have disappeared the Knights of the Pencil and Pastepot have a hard time of it. Occasionally our Mayor wakes up things and makes matters lively for a while by trying somebody or getting tried himself. But even this must cease, and the question is, what then?

Our new market house, though not so large SPICES, ACIDS, &c., Our new market house, though not so large or so fice a structure as the Alexandria market house, is yet well adapted to the wants of our city. Having a fine back country, our market is well supplied, and notwithstanding the hard times and harder tax bills, our people manage to live well.

Ripe strawberries put in a modest appearance a week since, and were transfered to epicurean stomachs at the pocket and soul-stirring tune of seventy-five cents per quart.

It has been said that when great Ceasar fell Rome fell also, and so in this latter day when our old market house fell the delectable locality known as 'Fort Snacks' perished with her. And the "devil" in the Republican building looking out upon the spot where once the noble fortress stood, dreams of the past and murmurs in the language of Milman: "Her cup of festivity is split,

And all is o'er, her grandeur and her guilt.' A splendid building costing some $60,000 or $70,000, and known as Lynch's Block, now stands in its stead. This building, we understand, will shortly be used as a hotel.

The line of railway between this city and Danville is at length completed, and trains are running daily. The large and flourishing lodge of Knights of Pythias in this city propose to pay their Danville brethren a visit about the 1st of June The venerable Bishop Johns preached at Grace Memorial and St. Paul's Episcopal Churches on yesterday to large and attentive | tion. congregations. He confirmed quite a number of persons at both churches.

If the weather does not get too hot, you may expect to hear again shortly from FAIRFAX.

ROMANTIC. - A Tennesseean loved a beautiful maid, but the cruel parent had other views. So they fled. As it was late at night they did not disturb any one with leave taking; a consideration they probably wished had been carried out in its consistency. After the clergyman had been called in he manifested some doubts as to the propriety of the marriage with- also a full line of Real Hair Goods, Hair out at least one more endeavor to obtain the Switches, &c. In due season a fierce clatter of hoofs was heard down the lane, and a voice wildly shouting, "I won't consent; I solemnly forbid the bans," struck consternation and terror into the hearts of the would-be bride and groom. The groom ran yard or make up very cheap. down to the door, and looking down the lane, saw the infuriated father coming like the wind, under whip and spur, hat in hand, his white late Mrs. A. M. FITZ HUGH hereby request hair wildly streaming, shouting at every breath, "I wou't consent." With promptness the lover seized his intended bride and mounted his steed, and bore her off in the opposite direction at a furious speed. The father, with the vigor of despair, plunged his spurs deeper into his fermion have a specific and specific a rection at a furious speed.
